

MOTIVATIONAL ESSAY

"The world is driven by numbers" (Pitagora)

My name is _____ (name of the student) and I graduated the _____ (name of the high school), Mathematical-Informatics profile, in the City of _____(name of the city), _____ County, June-July 2019 session.

Being a fresh graduate of high school and eager to continue my studies in a field that has attracted me since childhood, the official website of the Bucharest Academy of Economic Studies, through its educational offer was a real help to me and the long discussions with my parents who have always supported and guided me, respecting my choices, all of which led me to choose unquestionably the Faculty of Accounting and Management Information Systems.

I think I have a natural inclination for numbers, I am a superordinate and typical human being, I like working in an office and I wish for a job that will provide me with living above average; that is why I have decided to choose this faculty that will surely be my life-ramp, which will make it possible for me to practice a profession dear and close to my heart, the accountant one.

Yes, it is a profession that constantly compels you to learn something new, which, in my opinion, is very beneficial, thus removing the capping that this profession is often accused of. But you will not have to learn new basics, just to refresh your knowledge and update it to the new regulations.

Nowadays, technology has taken on a large scale in all areas and a good accountant will be the one to make connections, will provide solutions for top management, a fact that can be materialized by completing your studies through a master in the field, as well as by participating in an internship offered in the faculty to gain experience, this being a real advantage when integrating into the labor market.

In this respect, in the four years of high school, I participated in various volunteer activities, exchanges of experience with high schools in France and I was in an English camp in the Netherlands because knowledge of a foreign language above the average is an asset regardless of the chosen field.

Consequently, the good knowledge and the experience I accumulated in the above-mentioned situations make me wish to continue them during my university studies, through involvement and participation in various volunteer activities, competitions, exchanges of experience with other educational institutions and a lot more.

A solid stock of knowledge, up-to-date information, and malleability are, in my opinion, the principles with which anyone can deal today with our continually changing society.

Date,

Signature,